

To four-year-old Zoe, Western is a place to learn why the planets circle the sun and how gravity works – and to pretend she's an astronaut.

We go to Western

... to look at the stars!

Londoners regularly visit the Cronyn Observatory to learn about galaxies, binary stars, planetary nebulae – and to see Venus, Jupiter and Mars. And for those seeking more earthly pursuits, there are hundreds of musical recitals, stage performances at The Talbot Theatre, and of course, Mustang sporting events on campus and off.

Western has been contributing to the economic, social and cultural well-being of London since 1878. To learn more, please visit www.community.uwo.ca or call 519-661-2111 (80229).
